SHORN WOOL PRODUCTION

4,001,000 lbs. of shorn wool were produced in Alberta in 1939 according to the preliminary estimate of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. In 1939 the estimate was 4,925,000 lbs. Although the number of sheep shorn in 1939 was higher than the number shorn in 1938 the average weight per fleece was lower. In 1939, 479,290 sheep yielded 8.4 lbs. per fleece, while 513,000 sheep in 1938 yielded an average of 7.8 lbs. per fleece.

Production of shorn wool for all of Canada is estimated to be 12,569,000 lbs. as compared with 12,569,000 lbs. in 1939. Alberta produced more wool than any other province. Ontario production is 3,262,000 lbs., Quebec 2,068,000 and Saskatchewan 1,822,000 lbs.

The total number of sheep shorn in Canada is placed at 1,860,500 head compared with 1,805,100 in 1938. It is interesting to note that only in Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia has there been an increase in sheep shorn since last year. All other provinces show a decline. These provinces also show more sheep on farms at June 1st, 1940 than on the same date in 1939.

The great god Fear grinned back at me
I am the few times never see,
The hurt they never feel," said he.
"I am the wrong they never hear,
The poison they themselves prepare.
I am the shadow on the stair,
"I have no voice and yet I speak;
No strength and yet I blanch the cheek
And leave the strongest mortals weak."
"I am the blackguard men befriends, Holds most, feeds, cherishes, attends
And smother all complaint with friends.
"I fire no gun, I make no cry,
No lodging place in fact have I,
Yet I'm the countless deaths men die,
"Mine is a humor chocky grim, Yet past his door I could not get
Had he the wit to tell me: "No."

Nightingale

Mrs E. M. Stoolley entertained recently at a tea in honor of Mrs N. Hunter, Mr and Mrs Hunter, who have been house guests of Mr and Mrs Stoolley returned last week to East Vastie accompanied by their daughter Mrs Jack Stoolley and baby Gertrude.

The regular meeting of the W. I. was held at the home of Mrs Leonard Hill on Thursday last. Fifteen members and two visitors were present. A busy afternoon was spent at the quilting frame. Musical items were contributed by Rosemary Hilton and Mrs. Hilt. A refreshing cup of tea and dainty sandwiches and cakes were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs Owens, and Miss Helen Way. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs Henry Hilton on November 28th.

A whist drive in aid of the Red Cross Society was held at Valley Gardens School on Friday evening, November 15th. Arrangements were made by the teacher Mr A. J. Trimble, assisted by the pupils. The prizes were donated by Mr Chris Cullen and Messrs. Robert and Fred Newall. Winners of first prizes were Mrs. Hilt and Mr. Albert Gilling, with Mrs. Alice Walker and Mr. W. James taking the consolation prizes, the prizes were presented by Mrs. Claude Jukes. A tray cloth donated by Mrs. Rick Hansen was sold by auction. Mr. Robert Newall being the highest bidder. Dancing and games provided amusement at the conclusion of the whist drive and later every one did justice to the delicious refreshments provided by the ladies of the community. Our thanks are also due to others who helped to make the evening a success. It undoubtedly was. To Mr. Harriman who brought chairs and cups from Nightingale, to Mr. C. L. Chisholm who provided the coffee and managed the whist drive, to Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Edgar and Mr. A. J. Trimble who contributed music. For dancing, to Mr. and Mrs. Kinney, who gave gasoline for the lamp and to the boys and girls who managed the games. It is gratifying to announce that the Red Cross will benefit by the sum of $23.00.

The Girls Club met at the home of Mrs. Freddie Hilton on Tuesday and

THE QUEEN'S PIANO

Five Different Instruments Heard On Manufacturer's Invention.

The Queen's interest, shown at the British Industries Fair, in a piano which gives the effects of five different instruments, decided the inventor to adapt his design in an effort, now proving successful, to increase export business. The first of the new pianos is at present on the high seas and orders are being fulfilled for Malaya, South America, Panama and Iraq (other orders are in hand for the Dominions).

By simply pressing a pedal the pianist can achieve the effects of the harpsichord, guitar, lute and harp by means of an improved intercept between the "hammers" and the strings. And, of course, there is the piano itself which, by virtue of its design, has greater resonance and better tonal values than it is claimed, any other piano designed for the export market.

It is neither an "upright" nor a baby grand but a combination of both. The shape is that of the grand, the sound board is vertical. The inventor, Mr. W. Evans, of Messrs. Chas. Challen & Son Ltd., the manufacturers who play only by ear, is confident that the comparatively small size will not make excessive and uneconomical demands on cargo space.

BLACK GOLD!

The group of strangers, with south sea drawn recently arrived in Upernivik, are parts of a so-called Seismic Survey Party operated by Geophysical Service, Inc. of Dallas, Texas. The 25 men and one surveying pick-up truck are here under the immediate direction of Mr. K. E. Durr, chief of party.

Field equipment consists of a heavy truck of which three are light rotary drills; two high capacity water tanks; one explosives unit; one instrument unit and one surveying pick-up. Ordinary field procedure is to drill four to five inch holes, usually 50 to 100 feet in depth, by means of the portable rotary drills. An explosive charge is then forced down these holes by the "shooters" or explosives experts, and subsequently detonated by an electric current upon order from the instrument men. The almost imperceptible sound wave generated by the explosion are picked up and magnified by sensitive instruments called seismometers whose electrical impulses are later transformed into so-called "reflections." It is these reflections which enable mathematicians skilled in this work to accurately predict the depth to key geological horizons far underground and eventually make the construction of sub-surface maps possible.

It is often erroneously supposed that crews similar to that presently quartered in town actually determine the presence of oil by means of drilling. This is far from the truth; to the contrary there is no reliable preliminary method known at the present time that will register the presence of oil or gas directly. The reflection seismograph simply detects the presence of deep structure and after such favorable areas have been outlined only the oil field drill can prove or disprove production.

After their long and arduous trip over muddy roads from the flat during the evening was spent in helping the hostess with satisfaction that all his socks are darned! In view of the expected rush of invitations to the Girls Club, it is hereby stated that they will be taken strictly in alphabetical order.

Don't forget the Bazaar and Dance at Nightingale on Friday, November 22nd. You may be lucky winner of the quilt. We have also heard of a special item to be auctioned for the barbers of the neighborhood.

WM. C. FISHER, President.

HOG MARKETING
MORE UNIFORM IN 1940—
—1941—
That Alberta hog producers are heeding the call of the nation in its hour of need to market hogs in more uniform numbers from week to week is shown by an analysis of weekly hog marketings since January 1st. For the first 43 weeks of 1940 average weekly marketings of hogs have been about 22,000 head whereas the average number marketed weekly for the same period in 1939 was 15,000 head in round numbers.

In addition to quality a uniform supply has been the aim of Alberta's swine producers. In spite of climatic conditions that tend to make swine production a seasonal occupation, it is gratifying to see the success farmers are achieving in raising winter hogs and thus spreading deliveries throughout the year.

IMPORTANCE OF CALCIUM IN RATIONS OF DAIRY COWS

Milk contains nearly 1 per cent calcium oxide of lime. The cow obtains this mineral mainly from the roughage she consumes. Legumes such as alfalfa contain about four times as much lime as do grasses grown on the same land. If the ration for the dairy cow includes alfalfa, there is little danger of lime being lacking. If no legume hay is available, 2 per cent of bone meal in the grain ration will supply the necessary calcium.

Cows normally store calcium in the bones and draw on this source during periods of heavy milk production or when the feed lacks the mineral. If calcium is taken from the bones for too long periods, they become weak and brittle and are easily broken. The milk yield also decreases.

Alfalfa or some other legume hay is most desirable in the dairy cow's ration; in addition to supplying lime, it is extremely nutritious and possesses laxative qualities as well.

WHO IS ERNEST BEVIN?

(By Prof Harold J. Laskin in the Ottawa Journal)

IN VIEW of the frequent statements that Ernest Bevin will be Britain's Prime Minister, succeeding Winston Churchill when he gives up the reins of office the following article will have special interest.

It is not, I think, an exaggeration to say that no appointment in the Church of England government was more warmly welcomed or has given rise to greater expectations than that of Mr Ernest Bevin, General Secretary of the Transport and General Workers' Union, as Minister of Labor and National Service. With him, aggressive and determined trade unionism enters into one of the pivotal administrative posts. A workers' leader takes over the management of the nation, by universal acclaim is the right man in the right place.

Mr Bevin is in his early sixties. All his life he has been a trade unionist. Entering the Transport Workers' as a boy, he not only became its general secretary, he has been the architect of its advance to the position of the most powerful union in the country.

Physically a big man, Mr Bevin takes his views. He has been interested in large themes. He is not the kind of organizer who cannot see the wood for the trees. He is not, either, the kind of man who sees his own point of view only. Part of his strength is his ability to get into the minds of the men on the other side of the table. He has grasped the fact that the modern trade union leader must be a statesman if he is to be successful. He must understand the problems of tariffs and currency. He must grasp the significance of the new form of industrial combination. He must grasp the repercussions of international trade. It has been the secret of Mr Bevin's success that he has realized these things.

He talks to the employers about their own functions on equal terms. He knows that his mastery of their subjects must be thorough and complete. This it is that has made him so forceful a negotiator and so powerful an advocate. Anyone who reads his cross examination of the witnesses before the Transport Enquiry of 1929—the work that earned him the title of the "loquacious K. C."—will recognize the quality of the preparation he has sought; it is his task.

Immense energy, a power of drive that cuts through red tape, sterling common sense, these are Mr Bevin's great virtues. He fights hard, and he does not grudgingly care how hard. He knows what he wants, he goes for it with all his might; and the fate of the obstacles in his way does not concern him.

Mr Bevin is a man who enjoys power, and grows in stature with the opportunity to exercise it. And because he enjoys power, he enjoys action. He is not a mild content with the inner drama of speculation; that is probably the reason why he has never been on close terms with the intellectual in the Labor movement. A very practical person, he likes to see the immediate result; the spinning of imaginative complexities has no attractions for him. He respects strength as such; there are those among his critics—and there are plenty of them—who later from this that he enjoys bullying his opponents. I do not share that view.

My own experience is that, like most people who enjoy fighting, Mr Bevin respects the man who hits back hard. What he cannot endure is softness, the kind of attack which avoids the line, or intimates itself behind the front of battle, and with draws when it is discovered on the open field. That is why, it may be added, he has been in such continuous conflict with the Communist party. The tactics of secret penetration are anathema to him.

Mr Bevin has been called to immense responsibilities as Minister of Labor and National Service. It is not only that he has speedily to organize the manpower of the nation. It is not only, either, that he has to organize it in conditions of grave emergency. He has to call upon millions to give up deeply cherished safeguards he has himself fought hard to win for them. He has to evoke the confidence, not only that the surrender is a temporary one, but also that upon its basis, a new industrial relation of social justice will be won in the future. He has to overcome years of suspicion of employers' habits, to win a recognition that victory can be snatched from the very jaws of defeat. He has to risk the foundation of trade union strength to preserve the living principle of the movement, his own massively symbolized.

Can he do it? Above all, can he do it in time? This, at least, can be said, that he has begun superbly. You can see necessary organization taking swift shape under his hands. You can see a new sense of urgency in the workers upon whom he has called. There is a new tempo and only in the Department at Whitehall, but in field and factory and workshop throughout the country.

He wants more lifters in the engineering shops, at once the employment exchanges are overwhelmed with men who answer his call. He wants the support of the unions and a special conference of a thousand executive members give him a response that no merely political figure in Great Britain could have won. With him there has entered office that tough fibre of the working class in Britain that a century of unrelenting struggles has sharpened and hardened. It does not know when it is beaten. It expects him to see that it is not beaten now.

He has begun superbly. I think he will go on as he has begun. Mr Bevin knows his people and they know him. They believe in his ability; they have done so since he has been in the cockpit, at its full strength, the reserve power of the nation. They know now the gravity of the battle he is waging; they know, as no one else does, that this country, what is at stake. They will give their all for victory with cheerful determination.

TODAY'S SOLDIERS SERIOUS-MINDED; READING SHOWS IT

Ottawa.—The Canadian Legion education services has come to the conclusion there are three times more serious-minded soldiers in the Canadian army than frivolis minded.

Officials at the organization's headquarters here say the troops are interested primarily in non-fiction reading material, and that their list of non-fiction books compiled to fill the needs and requests of soldiers is three times as long as the fiction list.

Miss E. MacCallum, member of the educational services sub-committee for books, said today that every request for reading material expresses a desire to "know something" and that Canadian authors are popular with the men.

Several hundred books of all types have been sent to the forces in England, including books on radio, engineering, mechanical drawing and electricity. A selection of books about Canada—especially histories of the Great War written by Canadians and dealing with Canada's part in the conflict—is popular.

First aid books have been especially in demand. "All the soldiers seem concerned about being able to help out a pal in a pinch," Miss MacCallum said. "Their training makes them men of great initiative and many of these manuals have been distributed."

PARLIAMENTARY NOTES.

by DR. GERSHAW, M.P.

Canada's nineteenth parliament was opened by His Excellency The Governor-General. The Speech from the Throne was shorter than usual and in it the war activity was given first place. It pointed out that the advance of the forces of aggression had been halted by the indomitable spirit of the British people. It was promised that opportunity would be afforded for the fullest discussion of Canada's war effort. The Speech also stated that the measures to be submitted would be those that the advisors of His Excellency considered necessary for the welfare of the country and for the prosecution of the war to the very end of Canada's strength.

The full dress debate started by Mr Brooks, Claxton of Montreal moving that: "By His Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the House of Commons of Canada (in Parliament assembled, beg leave to offer our humble thanks for the gracious speech which Your Excellency has addressed to both Houses of Parliament."

In presenting the Motion, he stressed the fact that the courage and fortitude of the men and women of British Columbia had won the admiration of the world. The spirit of Britain was revealed anew in the miracle of the birth, and reaffirmed each day by the ordinary citizen's attitude to the worst the enemy could do. In all recorded history there are few examples of a less on great scale as that which has stopped the onward rush of the evil forces loosened on the continent of Europe.

Next to Great Britain, Canada is the strongest power fighting the enemy today, and the record shows the stupendous effort she is making. To the services in the Air, land and Naval forces, 200,000 Canadians have streamed from the farms, mines, offices, universities and professions. The number has doubled in the last six months.

The ordinary expenditure during the first year of the war will be $50 million dollars. The war expenditure will be $40 million. This figure is twice the amount of the cost during the last year of the Great War 1. It is hoped that two-thirds of these amounts will come from taxation, and one third from the internal loans that have already been made.

The Premier of the Dominion has taken a great part in the war policy, and on September 12th, Mr Winston Churchill cabled the following to him:

"I am very glad to have this opportunity of thanking you personally for all you have done for the common cause, and especially in promoting the harmony of sentiment throughout the New World. This deep understanding will be a dominant factor in the rescue of Europe from a relapse into the dark ages."

There are 21 Members of the House in military service, and of that number seven are French Canadians from the Province of Quebec.

Mr Claxton concluded by saying that this parliament and this people are confident that they can overcome all obstacles and that out of the ordeal of fire we can forge a new and a better Canada that will endure long after Hitler and his hordes have gone to their dismal end.

BRITAIN TO BUY ARGENTINA WHEAT

The United Kingdom has bought small quantities of Argentina old crop wheat and is expected to enter the market for larger quantities when the new crop becomes available. Broomhall comments, New crop Argentina wheat is priced at 48c a bushel f.o.b. compared with 78c for Canadian wheat of a difference of 30c. Broomhall believes that when the St. Lawrence freeways Britain will go to the Southern Hemisphere for wheat supplies.

SOMEWHERE IN FRANCE AND HERE IN CANADA
By B. Leslie Emale
The talk had been of hardships endured by Canadian farmers, when a member of the group drew from his pocket a letter and read it aloud. It was written by the relative of one well known to all present and unfolded a tale of suffering indeed, how once peaceful homes in France were menaced first by the descent of frantic famishing refugees and then despoiled and delisted by the army of invasion. It told of flight southward, miles of trudging without respite except when taking cover in ditches to escape bombs and bullets from the skies, then of the discovery that the enemy barred the way ahead and of having to retrace those weary steps toward what had once been home. But the enemy had been there. What could not be carried away was smashed. Gone were all the trunks and treasures of generations. Sadder still, gone was freedom. There remained only the instinct and quest for food. That, said the reader, adding the letter, might cause Canadians to consider the inestimable value of liberty which is worth some sacrifice to retain.

 OF RED CROSS
 The annual meeting of the Carseland
 Red Cross Branch was held on November 16th. The following officers were elected: Rev. R. Clegg, president.
 Mr. G. C. Melendy, Mr. O. Strin, Mr. W.
 Selinger and Mr. John Christensen, vice-presidents and members of the executive and Campaign Committees: Sec.
 Treas. Mrs. N. J. Mutch.

● The annual report showed $125.55, raised during the year in this district.
 440 articles of sewing, 200 articles of knitting and 7 pairs of blankets for refugees had been turned in to Red Cross Headquarters. On these supplies there remains a deficit of $14.11 to be

Y. P. S. Social Evening

—10:—
 Quite a number gathered in the basement of the United Church Sunday evening when the members of the Y. P. S. were hosts to the members of St. Michael's and United Churches.
 Carrying out Education Week, Supervisor M. MacLeod gave an address on the aims of Educationists not to teach by rote but to help the student "to learn to live." He stated the larger administrative aim is bringing the whole High School Course within reach of the rural student. For example in the Wheatland Areas, there are 14 Grade XII students this year, compared with 1 last year.

● Appreciation of Mr. MacLeod's interesting remarks was expressed by all.
 The audience took this opportunity of wishing Mr. Honor Nelson a very happy trip to his former home in Kansas when he is able to leave.

● CHADLE

Some of the ladies from Chadle attended the annual meeting of the Strathmore Branch of the Red Cross and were astonished and pleased to hear of the wonderful work done by the Branch and its auxiliaries. One couldn't help but think that if fifty per cent of the people can accomplish so much that an amount a hundred per cent could do.

● The Chadle Ladies Club held a card party in the hall last Thursday.
 The winners of the prizes which were in the form of war savings stamps were as follows: First—Mrs. B. Allen.
 Mr. B. Allen; Consolation—Mrs. C.
 Barber, Mr. J. Monague.

● The Chadle Sports Club held its annual meeting and election of officers last week. The new officers are:
 President—Mr. J. Hartell, Vice-president—Mr. B. Craig; Sec.-Treas.—Mr.
 McLean.

● Though a bit tardy we would like to thank the organizers to welcome Mr.
 and Mrs. Doug Koster back to our community.

● Our hearts are too full to utter the praise that trembles on our lips.
 But we'll do what we can to help them in their knitted shoes or ships. —L.M.

● The Nursery Special leaves London.
 And they hold up their heads and "Midst the death and the useless destruction,
 How can they help but win?"

● Shop keepers carry on.
 We read with bewildered eyes,
 The nonchalance of a people
 Apparently doomed to die.
